The Ann Kloehn Log Schoolhouse

Located at Gordon Bubolz Nature Preserve

Experience
History
History of the Log Schoolhouse

Thousands of students have attended classes at the Log Schoolhouse since it was constructed in 1975 to celebrate America's Bicentennial. A group of parents and community volunteers led by the Appleton Bicentennial Committee decided to construct an authentic log schoolhouse on the Franklin Elementary School grounds. All materials and labor were donated. Students began visiting the school in the spring of 1976.

Today the Log Schoolhouse resides in a more natural setting at the Gordon Bubolz Nature Preserve. It was moved here in 1998 to accommodate the extensive repairs and updates needed after more than 20 years of use. The building and curriculum still remain authentic Early Wisconsin.

The Ann Kloehn Log Schoolhouse is named in honor of an individual whose energy and enthusiasm has been a driving force behind the construction, authenticity, and continuation of the Log Schoolhouse.

Visit the Ann Kloehn Log Schoolhouse

Experience school as it might have been in the "olden days"...

A teacher, dressed in full period attire, greets students at the door of the Log Schoolhouse.

Stone and mortar fireplace provide heat.

Lessons in reading, writing, and arithmetic are taught by the light of candles.

Students practice penmanship with quill and ink.

Discipline (role played) will be old fashioned and may include a trip to the "Dunce Stool".

Registration Information

In the fall, half day sessions are available in October and November.

In the spring, half day sessions are available in March, April, and May.
